MUCH E[illegible]IFEST IN NEW RAILROAD PROPOSITION

Reports From Auto Party Heard by Large Number of Greensboro Business Men Last Night---Expert to go Over Proposed Route at Once.

The meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association and citizens of the city, last night, to consider plans for pushing the movement to build the Greensboro, Roxboro and Norfolk railroad, was largely attended and there was manifested the greatest interest in the proposition. This meeting was held in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce and was for the purpose of hearing the reports of the gentlemen who went over the route of the proposed road a short time ago in automobiles. Brief speeches were made by A. L. Brooks, J. W. Fry, J. T. Fain, C. D. Benbow, R. D. Douglas and R. C. Hood.

Mr. Brooks, who is familiar with the country it is proposed to build the road through, spoke of the fine soil, the splendid character and the prosperity of the people and of the fact that a large section of that country needs a railroad. He showed that the natural resources of the section and density of population was sufficient to guarantee enough business to sustain a railroad. He adduced facts and figures to show that Greensboro would largely profit by the road, in gaining connection with the Norfolk and Western and Seaboard Air Line and possibly with the Atlantic Coast Line, and by the opening up of new territory tributary to this city.

Capt. Fry gave his views of the proposed line as a railroad builder and operator for many years. He said there would be few physical difficulties to encounter in building this line on account of the fact that few streams would have to be crossed and the country is comparatively level. He believed the roadbed with rails laid down and ready for the rolling stock would cost not more than $17,000 or $18,000 per mile. An expert engineer, he said, had estimated the cost at $16,000 per mile. This would make the entire cost of the line total considerably less than $2,000,000. Of this amount at least twenty-five per cent. would have to be guaranteed by the people along the line before the bonds of the railroad could be floated and the remainder of the money secured to build it. Capt. Fry said he believed the net earnings of the road would amount from the beginning to $1,200 per mile and that the interest on the bonds would amount to $750 per mile, leaving a large net income for the road after paying interest charges.

The other gentlemen who spoke talked of the fine country through which the road is proposed and of the need of building a connection of this kind from Greensboro. It was stated that every member of the automobile party was delighted with the country and with the reception given by the people along the line and with their evident willingness to co-operate with Greensboro in building the road. The opinion was expressed by all that the road would pay and that this city and the country through which it is proposed to build it need the road and would be greatly profited by its construction.

It was announced that an expert is to be secured by the Chamber of Commerce to make a careful investigation of the entire country between this city and Henderson, to ascertain the probable business of the line, if it is built, and the cost of construction. These matters will be entered into very fully and the report of this expert will so shape up the proposition that it will be possible to determine almost exactly what the road will cost and what it will earn, if constructed. It is the intention of the Greensboro citizens to have this work done at an early date.

There is much railroad enthusiasm in this city and it is daily developing. It is generally believed this road will be built and that it is a question of but a short time when the first steps for its construction will be taken.

Elkins Family Non-Communicative.

Special to Telegram.

New York, May 25.—Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins and Miss Katherine Elkins sailed today on the steamer Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. Miss Elkins was accompanied to the pier by her two brothers and William J. Hitt, whose attentions of late to Miss Elkins have been marked. The members of the family absolutely refuse to be interviewed either in regard to the Abruzi or the Hitt affairs of Miss Katherine.

SAYS JAPS ARE GOING HOME

California Congressman Quotes Figures to Refute Invasion Talk.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—That more Japanese are leaving Hawaii and the United States than are entering the country has been told the House by Representative Knowland, of California, who submitted Department of Commerce and Labor figures to show that from July 1, 1908, the Japanese entering the United States numbered 7501, against 14,195 leaving the United Stats. In Hawaii there were 4348 arrivals and 6266 departures.

"This does not look like an invasion," he said. "In view of the interest shown on the Pacific coast when the recent Japanese treaty was up, these figures should be of some interest."

GAY SUMMER FOR THE CZAR.

Various Kings and Rulers to Be Entertained at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, May 25.—Arrangements are being made at the imperial court for an active summer season, the program including visitors to St. Petersburg by King Haakon of Norway, and King Nicholas of Montenegro, the Chinese Imperial Prince and the Khans of Bokhara and Khiva.

Emperor Nicholas and Empress Alexandra will visit Copenhagen and Christionia, and will take the cure at Friedberg and Bad Nauhaum, in Hesse. Bielgorod also will be visited by the Emperor, who intends there to attend the ceremony of canonization of the Russian Sain Josaph.

The Emperor and Empress are planning a two month's stay at the $1,500,000 palace, which is approaching completion in the Crimea.

REFORMED BIBLE CLASS JOINS BARACA UNION.

A business meeting of the Bible class of the First Reformed church was held last night, at which some important business was transacted. The class has joined the Baraca Union, and will hereafter be known as The Ebenezer Baraca Class of the First Reformed church. A large attendance is expected on next Sunday at 4:45 a. m., as this will be the first meeting after joining the Baraca Union.

New York's New Public Library With Its Million Volumes Just Opened to the Reading Public

The $10,000,000 New York Public Library, which was thrown open to the public on May 23, is one of the most complete institutions of its kind in the world. The structure represents the last word in architecture and occupies two entire blocks in Fifth avenue from Fortieth to Forty-second street. Some idea of the magnificence of the interior finishings may be gained from the above picture, which shows the massive oak doors leading to the main reading room. The lion shown in the illustration is one of a pair which adorn either side of the principal entrance.

HARLAN'S DISSENTING OPINION IS VIGOROUS

Files Written Dissent in Standard Oil Case—Believes Majority Opinion Will Result in Endless Litigation And Injury to The Country.

Washington, May 25.—Associate Justice Harlan has filed his dissenting opinion in the Standard Oil case and it is stronger and more vigorous than the oral opinion delivered at the time the decision of the court was made public.

Judge Harlan states in his opinion that he believes the decision of the majority of the court will cause much litigation and with injurious effects lasting for years. He brands as mischievous the modification made by the court in the decree of the lower court permitting subsidiary corporations of the Standard Oil after dissolution of the combination to make "normal and lawful agreements among themselves." Chief Justice White has characterized this modification as a "minor matter."

The further declaration is made by Harlan that he is convinced the court's opinion "will throw the business of the country into confusion and invite widely extended and harrassing investigations ,the injurious effects of which will be felt for many years to come."

In connection with what he terms the "mischievous and modifications," Justice Harlan quotes the Chief Justice as saying "it does not necessarily follow that because an illegal restraint of trade or attempt to monopolize or monopolization would necessarily arise from agreements between one or more subsidiary corporations after the transfer of stock by the New Jersey corporation."

"The subsidiary companies are thus in effect informed wisely, I think," says Justice Harlan, "that although the New Jersey corporation, being an illegal combination, must go out of existence, they may join in an agreement to restrain, commencing among the states, if such restraint be not 'undue.'"

IN WEST VA. MINE FIRE IS RAGING

Special to Telegram.

Clarksburg, West Virginia, May 25.—Fire is still raging in the No. 2 coke mine of the Hutchinson Coal and Coke Company at Meadow Brook, and the damage has been very heavy. The mine has been burning since Saturday night. A crew of Pittsburg men of the government mine rescue service, equipped with special appliances for fighting fire, are aiding in the efforts to extinguish the flames. The fire is said to be gaining headway, however, despite all efforts to get it under control.

THIS SENATORIAL BOOM STRUCK SNAG

Special to Telegram.

Meridian, Miss., May 25.—The Senatorial candidacy of former Governor Vardaman received a blow today when ex-Congressman "Private" John Allen offered to donate one thousand dollars if Vardaman would agree to stand trial on charges of misconduct in the office of Governor.

The offer of Allen is conditioned on Vardaman being found not guilty of the charges. The ex-Governor is charged with misuse of trust funds.

MORSE IS CRUSHED BY PRESIDENT'S REFUSAL OF PARDON

Special to Telegram.

Atlanta, Ga., May 25.—Charles W. Morse is crushed by the refusal of President Taft to give him a pardon, and when one of the guards at the federal prison conveyed to him the news of the President's decision, he said: "It will be terribly hard on my wife."

JOHN F. ARCHBOLD LOST DAMAGE SUIT

Son of Standard Oil Magnate Called Into Court on Account of Running Down a Child With His Automobile—Lost Damage Suit For $6,000.

Special to Telegram.

New Bedford, Mass., May 25.—In the trial of John F. Archbold, son of the Standard Oil magnate, charged with causing the death of a child here in 1908, which was run down by his automobile, a verdict for $6,000 damages was returned against Archbold.

The child run down by Archbold's machine was seven year old Guilheme de Mello. The death of the child occurred on July 23, 1908. The suit for damages was brought by the father of the child, and Archbold was forced to go on the witness stand and testify in regard to the affair. He testified that the machine was being driven at a speed of 25 miles an hour and was slowed down on seeing the child. It was alleged in the trial that he had no Massachusetts chauffeur's license and did not display a Massachusetts number.

JAPAN VIEWS ARBITRATION WITH FAVOR

Special to Telegram.

Tokio, May 25.—It is announced that Japan is prepared to participate in the negotiations for a general arbitration treaty with America. The tentative draft submitted by President Taft to Great Britain is regarded here as the greatest and strongest arbitration document ever produced.

Passengers Escaped From Sinking Steamer.

Panama, May 25.—The National Line steamer Taboga struck reefs off Humta Mala, Tuesday, and soon sank. The latest report states that none of the hundred passengers were lost.

PORFIRIO DIAZ TENDERS RESIGNATION AS PRESIDENT OF MEXICAN REPUBLIC

In Letter to Chamber of Deputies Diaz Laments Fact That He is Charged With Being Cause of Revolution---Resignation Celebrated in Juarez.

Special to Telegram.

Mexico City, May 25.—Porfirio Diaz this evening resigned as president of the Mexican republic, the resignation being tendered the Chamber of Deputies. The deputies unanimously accepted the resignation amid a storm of cheers. Senator Aspe presented the resignation and in closing a brilliant speech said "President Porfirio Diaz is dead, long live Citigen Porfirio Diaz." The senator said that Diaz had been called to account for his errors by the fact that the people were progressing faster, but the good he has done will long outlive his errors.

De La Barra, provisional president, will take the oath of office today. In his letter to the president of the Chamber of Deputies tendering his resignation President Diaz said:

"The Mexican people, who so generously have covered me with honors, who proclaimed me as their leader during the international war, who patriotically assisted me in all works undertaken to develop the industry and commerce of the republic, establish its credit, gain for it the respect of the world and obtain for it an honorable position in the concert of nations; that same people has revolted in armed military bands, stating that my presence in the exercise of the supreme executive power is the cause of this insurrection.

"I do not know of any fact imputable to me which could have caused this social phenomenon, but permitting, though not admitting, that I may be unwittingly culpable such a possibility makes me the least able to reason out and decide my own culpability. Therefore, respecting, as I have always respected, the will of the people, and in accordance with Article 82 of the Federal Constitution, I come before the supreme representatives of the Nation in order to resign, unreservedly, the office of constitutional president of the republic with which the National vote honored me, which I do with all the more reason since, in order to continue in office, it would be necessary to shed Mexican blood, endanger the credit of the country, dissipate its wealth, exhaust its resources and expose its policy to international complications.

"I hope, gentlemen, that when the passions which are inherent to all revolutions have been calmed a more conscientious and justified study will bring out in the national mind a correct acknowledgement which will allow me to die carrying engraved in my soul a just impression of the estimation of my life, which throughout I have devoted and will devote to my countrymen. With all respect. Porfirio Diaz."

Rejoicing At Juarez.

El Paso, Texas, May 25.—The Madero people at Jaurez celebrated the resignation of Diaz with wine and rejoicing, yet they considered in this connection the whole story of his abdication but a milestone in the forward movement. The peace pact was broken but not by Maderoists.

Madero, as empowered, named Carranzas as governor of Coahuila, but the legislature of that state refused to receive him. Madero has ordered an attack on Saltimo and the insurrectos are moving towards that place. The government gold grafters are busy elsewhere and fighting in other states is certain, especially where it has brought out opposition to Madero as in Saltimo, the capital of Coahuila.

Riots Preceded Resignation.

Mexico City, May 25.—Anti-Diaz rioting was resumed shortly after noon today. The police fired on the crowd from the building of the department of foreign relations, killing one.

Robles Dominguez's manifesto, appealing for order was totally disregarded. De La Barra issued an official statement saying that President Diaz and Vice President Corral would resign today.

President Diaz is suffering with a high fever and broken as his health is, obstinately refuses to resign in the face of the fact that his friends urge that his life is in danger.

The loyalty of the regular army to the President has apparently been redoubled by the straits into which he has been driven.

SUES HIM TEN YEARS LATER.

Cotton Broker's Wife Asks Divorce Long After Separation.

New York, May 25.—Mrs. Ella Van Brunt has made application to Justice Aspinwall, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, for $2,500 a year alimony and counsel fees pending a suit for absolute divorce against Charles Van Brunt, a cotton broker. She charged that they were separated ten years ago and that she lost knowledge of him until recently, when she learned that he was at the Hotel Belmont, Freehold, N. J., with a stylish young woman whom he introduced as his wife. Van Brunt's attorneys denied in detail the allegations and added that the wife deserted him and that he obtained an absolute divorce from her in Reno a year ago. Decision was reserved.

HIS FIFTH DEATH PENALTY.

Negro Convicted Again for Murder in Which White Was Hanged.

Dallas, Tex., May 25.—A verdict with the death penalty has been returned by the jury in the Burrell Oates case, tried at Waxahachie. This is the sixth time the negro has been tried for the killing of Sol Aronoff, a Jew merchant of Dallas. Four times he was given the death penalty. Once a hung jury resulted. Today again the death penalty was given. Aronoff was shot to death in his little store at Dallas in December, 1904.

Holly Van, a white man, has already been hanged for the murder. Frank McLane turned State's evidence and furnished the material testimony on which Van and Oates were convicted.

METHODIST WOMEN TO MEET IN LEXINGTON.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Western North Carolina Conference will meet in the First Methodist church in Lexington Thursday, June 8, and will be in session until June 12. About two hundred delegates are expected. Mrs. Lucy H. Robertson, president of the Greensboro Female College, is president of the society, and will preside at the meeting.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY FIREMEN WILL STRIKE UNLESS TWENTY PER CENT. INCREASE IS GIVEN

Special to Telegram.

Washington, May 25.—The firemen and enginemen of the Southern Railway have voted unanimously to strike if the company does not increase wages twenty per cent. It is said that 2,400 men voted on the proposition.

Southern Railway officials say that the road's differences with the firemen and enginemen will be settled amicably.

Washington, May 25.—Although the controversy between the Southern Railway and its firemen has reached a critical stage it appears doubtful that a strike will result. The firemen's organization has demanded an increase of 20 per cent in wages with a threat to strike as the alternative.

President Finley was in conference today with other officials of the company regarding the situation and shortly afterward arranged for a conference between the firemen's committee and Finley later in the day. It is expected a final determination of the controversy may then be reached.

H. O. Teat, of Atlanta, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, said no strike would be ordered until after the fullest opportunity is given for adjustment.

HARNETT NEGRO SHOOTS OFFICER; MILITARY COMPANY MAY BE CALLED OUT

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 25.—There came from Harnett county this evening a request for the military company at Dunn to be ordered out to aid in the capture of John Aiken, who had probably fatally shot Deputy Sheriff Thaddie Jernigan, of Harnett, when that officer went to serve a capias on him as a "blind tiger" for failure to appear at court and show good behavior, as required under the terms of suspension of judgment. An automatic gun was used by Aiken and he carried this in his flight so the citizens feared to pursue him. He was heading for the swamps, a mile from Dunn, when the request for the militia came.

Adjutant General Leinster directed the sheriff to order out the Dunn company if he deemed it advisable and the authorities were urged from the governor's office to use every precaution to prevent a lynching in event the fugitive is captured. Advices late tonight are that Deputy Jernigan is in a very critical condition and Aiken is still at large.

Everybody is predicting a hot senatorial campaign in North Carolina, but let us hope it will be postponed until next year. There is no reason why it should be prolonged for a year and a half, and there is heat enough in North Carolina at present without the addition of any politicial heat.

Senator Simmons says he is a poor man—poorer than when he was elected to the Senate, and that his small property is mortgaged. The Durham Herald says the Senator is comparatively rich." The Herald means, no doubt, that the Senator's small property with the mortgage on it makes him appear rich in comparison with a newspaper man.

The people of the country will have to continue taking poison in their sugar, but they ought to be willing to do it for the sake of the poor, downtrodden sugar trust. The trust needs the money. The manufacturers of saccharin must also be considered. They must not be asked to sacrifice their investments even to save the people of the United States from being daily fed on harmful and dangerous foodstuffs.

Greensboro to Henderson, via Burlington, Graham, Roxboro and Oxford, is the route for the proposed railroad. It will extend through some of the finest country in North Carolina, will open up territorly now without railroad facilities and will give this city some very desirable railroad connections. This road must be constructed and Greensboro must take the lead in building it. The people along the line will help, but the leadership devolves upon Greensboro.

What is the use of having the law established by the Supreme Court, as the Richmond Times-Disbatch says was done in the Standard Oil decision, if the Standard Oil Company is to be allowed to go on doing business in restraint of trade? That it is the purpose of the oil trust to do this is clearly evident. In fact, certain of its high officials have said as much.

The Asheville violators of the prohibition law have been sentenced to the road gang, but they may not land there. It is difficult to punish violators of the prohibition law if they have money to fight their cases through the courts; and the fact that the Asheville men convicted have apparently been doing a wholesale business in liquor selling, indicates that they are not exactly paupers.

William Randolph Hearst favors the nomination of Champ Clark as a candidate for President, provided the Democratic convention cannot be induced to nominate William Randolph Hearst. It will be entirely safe to wager that the convention will not consider Mr. Hearst's name even for second place. In fact, Mr. Hearst has not been a Democrat long enough to be entitled to consideration and there is yet nothing but his assertion to sustain the contention that he is a Democrat.

"Clean-up" day in Greensboro should be prolonged through the summer. One cleaning is not sufficient for any city. To keep the city in sanitary condition constant cleaning must be resorted to. Keep the yards, especially the back yards, clean; keep the alleys clean; keep the outhouses clean; keep the entire place clean; and call on the city officials to keep the streets and public places clean and to see to it that every unsanitary corner of the city is cleansed. Vigilance is the price of success in sanitary matters.

POISONING OF SUGAR WILL CONTINUE.

The public will have to continue the use of poisoned sugar, is the news that comes from Washington City. The poison with which sugar is adulterated is saccharin, and that it is a poison is attested by the highest authorities of the world. The use of saccharin in food products has been prohibited in every enlightened country of Europe, and every factory manufacturing saccharin in Germany has been closed, with one exception. This one factory is permitted to operate under government surveillance for the purpose of manufacturing saccharin for the use of physicians. In Germany the amount of saccharin a physician may prescribe is limited by law. Yet the "big business" interests of this country dominate the federal government to so great an extent that the people of the country are to be forced to swallow this dangerous and harmful ingredient in their food stuffs.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the government bureau of chemistry, has declared that the use of saccharin is prohibited by the pure food law enacted four years ago; and the cabinet committee composed of Secretaries Wilson, MacVeagh and Nagel, ruled that after July 1st of this year the use of saccharin in food products should be prohibited. The "big business" interests have secured reversal of this order and its suspension for a year. The enforcement of the law against its use has already been held up for three years. Now, for another year at least, and perhaps indefinitely, the people of the United States are to be sold poison in their sugar, in order that profits may be piled up for the sugar trust and the manufacturers of saccharin.

The United States government's referee board which passed upon the matter, was headed by Doctor Remsen, the inventor of the drug. After three years of wrestling with the question, the board recommended that the use of the poison be prohibited. The three members of the cabinet who form the review board issued an order to that effect last month, but gave the manufacturers sixty days in which to get rid of their stock of poisoned food by selling it to the people.

Now the board again extends the period one year, "so as to give the manufacturers time to adjust their business to the new rule."

Saccharin is a coal-tar product, derived from benzoate of soda. But the board which admitted benzoate found that saccharin is a poison, and that it has absolutly no nutritive value. As it is used as a substitute for sugar, it is therefore not only dangersous to health, but also a fraud.

It is 500 times sweeter than sugar, and for the same amount of sweetening power costs the manufacturer only about one-fifteenth as much. This explains why the manufacturers want to put the poison in their products instead of the wholesome food, sugar, for which it is substituted.

Disturbers of the Peace

(By CARA REESE.)

Someone starts yelling about nothing in particular, but in an incredibly short time there are thousands of voices joining in the cry. This is the way disturbance begins.

Or a mad Mullah begins to shriek and dance and immediately the throngs take up the noise and a "holy war" is started. The general run of "holy wars" originate in this way. Or, one rebel stampedes through the tranquil streets brandishing a weapon and calling on supporters to the cause and in an instant there is tumult and disloyalty to law and administrative government. It is something alarming, the power and depotism of the individual.

The hot-tempered mounts the rostrum and soon the audience becomes so much tinder and the whole situation inflammable. Or, one weakling shows fright and in a minute there is panic. Or, one mouth gives utterance to the imaginary, and lo, the rumor is started which gains headway and finally wrecks banking and business.

The lone and single-handed individual with the personal power of mischief-making is the only element which makes for war and which entails the costly preparedness for defense and fortification. All strife, mutiny, rioting and controversy may be traced back to some lone power. The responsibility, therefore, is something beyond all calculation. If only some plan might be devised for isolating and setting apart the lone disturber, what a benefit to mankind in general and to the war department in particular.

It is something like the mosquitoes and the yellow fever. After longand costly experiments in the effort to conquer and exterminate the countless pests, and carriers of disease, the plan was adopted of merely screening the patient and thus preventing the gathering and rallying of the buzzing hosts. If some modification of the idea were introduced where disturbance and conflict were imminent results mights might be equally efficacious. A single individual with a sick brain or a malicious heart is able to distort the vision of thousands and to start a stupendous quarrel.

Or, a single individual with an overwhelming ambition, as in the case of Napoleon, counts nothing too costly or gigantic for its attack, though hosts are sacrificed in making the onslaught. And yet the power of the individual is fully as efficacious for peace as for warfare. The whole question belongs to the individual. One individual with a purpose can transform the world. Where such purpose be peace, then peace will rule. Just now it were better to keep individual excitement under control and all roads should lead toward peace.

The pulpit should preach as never before the doctrine of peace. The forum should exploit the strength of the peaceful invasion and urge recruits in that direction. The pen should be easy flowing and tranquil in the lessons it would teach, and calmness should rule the waiting hours. The message of relief never comes during turmoil. But if, in spite of all, the mullah or rebel lifts up a shriek, then quick with the screen and isolate with speed.

Lovely Example of Some Women

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

I know lovely ladies who, in simple garb, spend some certain hours of every day in alleviating all the suffering that they can reach, and who then, going home, put on their silken garments and tread their velvet floors, and give no intimation of the sights they have seen to sadden the guests, unless the assistance of those guests is needed.

To all other women of wealth, when in the arms of their own comforts they know how strongly fire and furs and hearty food are needed by themselves, let such examples be commended, not only since they will find their recompense in the act, but in rememberance of the assurance also that "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these, ye did it unto me?"

But for our part, those of us that are not wealthy, we cannot run the risk of letting even possible suffering and death load the victims with their dark weight without examining into the facts of the case, or else, provided the power to alleviate is ours, we shall feel that the blood of these sufferers is on our hands.

There is always, we know, some one member of our family who is able to look into these matters; and once having the report, we are at ease; if the case of suffering is a forged one, our sympathies are relieved; if it is genuine, and if to lighten its load we are obliged to forego the new cloak, to delay the new silk, or abandon the opera tickets, we can be soothed by the consciousness that our heavenly robe will be all the brighter, and our souls will be all the more finely attuned by-and-by to the music of the stars singing together. He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord.

Still, it is usualy possible to asuage the pain of poverty without depriving ourselves of enjoyment of real consequence, for the poor, it is said, are able to be happy on the superfluity of the rich, and the mistress of a single comfortable household has kept the wolf from the door of more than one penniless family during a whole winter.

It needs, perhaps, a little more oversight of store room and cupboard than it is always agreeable to give, in order to make sure that this superfluity shall go in the right direction; a little more attention to the way of the cook with her friends who are not in such dire distress, thus to see for ourselves that the fragments of our feasts reach those in real need. Yet that is but a slight tax; and we shall be well rewarded in the rosy cheeks of the children who come daily with their baskets, when we reflect that but for our oversight, the cheeks would have been wan and pinched and blanched, even if their owners were not underground altogether.

"Why did Humpty Dumpty sit on the wall?"

"He probably thought he could hold it down."—New York Press.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Advertising Talks

H. G. B.

THE ADVERTISING MAN SOME TIMES HEARS THIS ARGUMENT AGAINST ADVERTISING:

"The people do not respond to advertising of special so-called bargains because they have got sense enough to know that the merchant is not selling the goods at a loss, that if he loses on one article he must make it up on another."

Of course this argument is directed particularly against the advertising of specials but it nevertheless has a bearing on all other advertising. There is no contradiction to be made to the statement that the sensible people realize that the merchant cannot afford to sell all of his goods below cost. It is a fact, however, that the leading merchants of the country frequently find it to their advantage to sell on a low margin and some time with no margin at all some of the articles in their stocks which haven't met with, for various reasons, the demand that the buyer for the store anticipated. The smart shoppers find frequently extraordinary bargains offered in these special sales, and they naturally welcome and respond to the succeeding special advertisements of those firms from which they have gotten real bargains. The point that is being made here is just this: No merchant or business man can afford to pursue other than a strictly honest policy. His goods must be what they are represented to be, or he cannot expect to control the customers. No merchant should tolerate a salesman in his establishment who is not reliable and who he knows his trade does not have confidence in. Likewise no merchant should permit any advertising to appear which contains any untruths. A candid talk, a plain statement is the most telling factor in salesmanship, and advertising is salesmanship.

Let your advertisements be candid and to the point, the people will very quickly find out that you are pursuing such a policy. Their interest in your advertisements will be greatly increased, they will watch for what you have to say and they will respond too.

The truth of this advertisement is evidenced everywhere by the demand for well known and established brands. The merchant knows too well the value to him of having the agency for some particular article or brand of goods which has been on the market for years and which has established an enviable reputation on its merits.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

OFFERS TAFT WHOLE ISLAND.

Owner Proffers Summer White House Site in St. Lawrence River.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—The proposal of certain Minnesota citizens to establish a summer White House on Lake Minnetonka seems to have an "open season" for summer White House offers to President Taft. Two such offers, from widely separated parts of the country, came today.

One man, whose name was not made public, expressed a wish to give the President full title to one of the Thousand Islands in the St. Lawrance River, provided Mr. Taft would establish a summer capital on it. The writer said he owned so many islands he did not really know what to do with them, and would be glad if the President would take one off his hands. Secretary Miles replied that the President could not very well use an island at this time.

Representative Austin and a delegation of Tennesseeans from Berryville offered the President a fully equipped summer home on Bald Knob, in the Smoky Mountains, 60 miles from Knoxville. The offer probably will not be accepted.

Occupation for Women.

Two women, maybe more, occupy novel positions in the business world in New York. These women are employed by a number of wholesale dress goods and millinery houses to entertain women buyers from out of town. They entertain the visitors at dinner, in the theater, and make the sojourners' stay in New York pleasant. The expense, of course, is charged to the houses employing them. The individual charges of these women entertainers usually are about one-fourth of the total expense.

Daily Thought.

Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us if we find it not.—Emerson.

STRIDES IN GUNNERY

Shooting in Uncle Sam's Navy Now and in 1898.

Speed of Big Gun Fire Multiplied by Four—Make Ten Times as Many Hits at Four Times the Range.

Washington.—The four experts in scientific management engaged by the navy department to study the business methods of the navy yards and report on possible methods of improvement, has recently expressed in personal letters to officers of the navy the profound impression made upon them by the efficiency of the navy as manifested in the battle practice of the Atlantic fleet. While their investigation has nothing to do with the efficiency of the fleets as fighting machines, Secretary Meyer thought it a good idea to let the investigators see the Atlantic fleet in operation so that they could judge of the navy as a fighting organization before reporting on the business part of it alone. They accompanied the secretary on the Mayflower and watched the operations of the fleet at close range.

The experts are Frederick W. Taylor, Henry L. Gantt, Charles P. Day and Harrington Emerson. They are still at work, going from one navy yard to another, in their preliminary investigation. Their report is not yet ready, and is not expected for some time, but their personal opinion of the navy, after seeing the Atlantic fleet in operation, is that nowhere in the world, so far as efficiency is concerned, have they seen "either in an industrial plant, or any other operation anything that begins to equal the navy."

They were particularly impressed with the close division of labor arrived at in handling the big guns. Thirty men are needed to aim and fire the largest rifles, and these have the work divided into listed movements reduced to terms of fifths of a second. The experts found that the speed of the big gun fire had been multiplied by four since the Spanish war, while the accuracy of fire had increased almost beyond calculation.

In that war one shot in four minutes was the record, while as against the 120 hits out of the 9,000 shots fired at the Spaniards at the battle of Santiago, targets at greater distance than the battle range were hit nearly every time. The experts figured the thing out to a point where they reached the conclusion that at a range of four times as great, with guns fired four times as fast, the mark was hit ten times as often, In the routine of coaling—always an important point with the heavy battleships—the investigators found the same sort of improvement had been made. Thirty tons an hour was the old record for coaling a ship, but this has lately worked up to 500 tons an hour. In many minor matters has the fighting or steaming radius of the ships been increased. Improved methods of self-repair and greater economies in fuel and space have added greatly to the efficiency of the fleets.

While they are civilian business experts, and not experts in gunnery or seafaring technicalities, they are preparing a report in which they will tell the secretary of the navy that for efficiency they have not seen "anywhere in the world, either in an industrial plant or any other operation, anything that begins to equal the navy."

CUT EXPENSES IN ARMY.

The army and the navy are to be carefully looked over with a view to reducing appropriations at the next session of congress. The new chairman of the military committee, Representative James Hay of Virginia, has already introduced a bill "to decrease the expense and increase the efficiency of the staff service of the army."

Chairman Hay believes that the enactment of this legislation will save the government in the neighborhood of $500,000 annually. He proposes to consolidate the quartermaster, subsistence and pay departments under a major general and two brigadier generals. The officers now composing those independent corps will form the personnel of the consolidated branch to be known in departmental administration as the "bureau of supplies."

Under the proposed legislation there would ultimately be a reduction in the number of majors by 11, and the number of captains by 31. Chairman Hay says that under the proposed reorganization he would save a half-million dollars a year, but would increase the efficiency of these branches in the service. Seemingly, there will be no special opposition to the project on the part of the officers of the three departments marked for consolidation.

The new military committee has other legislative reforms in mind. President Taft's economy and efficiency board also is working along the same line, and it seems reasonable to suppose that out of the combined efforts there will come a saving in money that will be worth while.

CAN PREVENT MINE DISASTERS.

Outlining some measures designed to go a long ways towards preventing a repetition of mine accidents, such as recently occurred at Banner, Ala., and Throop, Pa., with their accompanying toll of human life, Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, head of the bureau of mines, who has just returned from investigating both accidents, urged that "No miner or operator should feel satisfied until every precaution known to the industry has been taken." He said that mine fires, such as those at Cherry Hill, Ill., in November, 1909, with its 262 lives lost, and at the Pancoast colliery at Throop, which cost 73 lives, could easily be extinguished if promptly attended to. He advised that the shafts and the stables and engine rooms, when underground, should be of fireproof construction. If combustible materials must be stored in the mines there should be ample water supply together with other fire-fighting apparatus.

Doctor Holmes urged the use of only those explosives least likely to ignite after gas or dust and the general adoption of a system of electric firing "to be used at a time when all of the miners are out of the mine." Other measures suggested are that only small quantities of any explosive needed for use during a single day should be in the mine at one time, and under no conditions should the powder and the detonators or caps be carried into the mine together, nor should the powder or detonators be kept in any mine of night, as dampness may change their quality.

Although the safest plan, according to Doctor Holmes, to prevent a dust explosion is to wet the coal dust throughout the whole mine, a thorough wetting in any part of a bituminous coal mine lessens the danger of an explosion. The cheapest and most satisfactory manner of doing this, he continues, is to turn the exhaust steam from the mine power plant into the mine along with the air current.

HUMOR IN THE SENATE.

Senators will have their fun, even on the floor of the United States senate. Senator Rayner of Maryland one day called a page to dispatch him for some cigars. He pulled a $5 bill from his pocket, and it was a brand-new greenback, which had never been folded. He stretched out his arm with the bill in his hand just as Senator Overman leaned over to speak to him. He continued talking with the money held out in his hand, and the senators on the Democratic side began to laugh. Dignified Senator Bacon of Georgia, who sits some seats away, finally said: "Does the senator from Maryland wish to introduce that bill?" Whereupon Senator Clark of Arkansas chimed in with: "It would be very well received, but I do not think it would pass." About that time Senator Overman caught on and he declared: "More work for Chief Wilkie." Senator Rayner, all unconscious of what was going on, thrust the $5 bill into the hands of the waiting boy, and did not know until afterward what his colleagues were all laughing about.

TO BREAK UP GREENBACKS.

The greenback incident of 1893, when the treasury was practically drained of gold by what President Cleveland termed an endless chain, can never be repeated after a plan which Secretary MacVeagh has set in motion is completed.

The plan is to break up all the outstanding greenbacks of large amounts into smaller ones as fast as they come into the treasury for redemption. Students of finance say the result will be that enough greenbacks to embarrass the treasury can never be assembled at any one time.

It is even planned to bring in the $1,000 and $10,000 notes which have been held in banks for many years, and the assistance of national bank examiners will be invoked.

TO PUSH WIRELESS BILLS.

Much pressure is being exerted in Washington by the wireless telegraph companies to secure a favorable report on the bill of Representative Roberts looking to the federal regulation of wireless telegraphy. Mr. Roberts' bill calls for the appointment of a board of seven experts who shall investigate existing conditions and report to congress a suitable plan by which the use of wireless telegraphy may be so regulated as to eliminate the present evils.

The companies favor the Roberts bill rather than that introduced by Representative Greene in the last congress, because they claim that Mr. Greene's plan of putting the subject under control of the department of commerce and labor would not insure so effective results as with the seven qualified experts.

SINGULAR FACT.

A singular fact in connection with the present house is that of the 227 Democrats in it not one of them ever served as chairman of a house committee. Only three of that 227 Democrats ever served in a Democratic house. These are Speaker Champ Clark, W. A. Jones of Virginia and J. C. Talbot of Maryland. The latter representative antedates all the Democrats in the house, having been a member since 1881, the Forty-sixth congress, when Samuel J. Randall was speaker. Mr. Talbot served two terms, and then retired for a time. He swore Speaker Clark in.

TO PRINT CHAPLAIN'S PRAYERS.

Without running the risk of missing prayers, the members of the house of representatives hereafter may be late whenever they like. The daily supplications of Chaplain Couden have been ordered by Speaker Clark to be printed each day in the Congressional Record. The request was made by Representative Ashbrook of Ohio.

JERRY MOORE, SOUTH CAROLINA CORN GROWER, INSPIRES OTHERS

Special to Telegram.

San Antonio, Texas, May 25.—Jerry Moore, the youngster over in Florence county, South Carolina, who grew 228 bushels of corn on an acre of land last year and inspired the entire corn growing world by his efforts, will have a number of imitators in Texas this year—real Texas boys who declare in their enthusiasm that a thing that can be done elsewhere can be done in Texas. In all parts of this state corn growing is becoming more and more an occupation of the farmer. While it is true that the older Texans who have spent most of their lives in the saddle chasing a lank hammed refractory steer do not know a great deal about farming, and while their efforts in this particular are something of a joke, the younger generation is determined to demonstrate that Texas is a great corn growing state. Boys corn clubs have been formed in almost every county, and in every one of these, the accomplishment of Jerry Moore is discussed. The fact is, Jerry is much more famous as the result of his corn growing than if he had eloped with some of the iron masters' daughters of the effete east. This young South Carolinian may not know it, but he has started something among the farmer boys in all parts of the country and the chances are that he will have to grow more than 228 bushels to the acre in the near future if he continues to hold first place.

BUSH FIRES CORRAL BEASTS.

Deer, Bear, and Others Mingle With Farmer's Steers.

Williamsport, Pa., May 25.—When the sum total of the devastation wrought over the state preserves by the fires of the past two weeks has been reckoned, from the reports being prepared by the state foresters, an appalling loss will be shown. It is declared that the fires this spring have demonstrated that present fire-fighting forces and methods are so puny, as compared with the destructiveness of the flames, that the State Forestry Department will find iself facing a problem more serious than any that has come up to it since the organization of the forest preserve plan.

In cattle, farm houses, crops, fruit trees, sawmills, lumber, bark and cut logs the loss in Clinton. Lycoming, Potter and Sullivan counties as a rult of the fires this spring, is heaviest.

In swampy sections an examination showed that both deer and bear had sought refuge in the same places with steers, the wild animals and the steers fraternizing together under the common danger. A vertiable exodus of wildcats occurred, these animals pulling out for the lowlands, and now farmers are reporting the loss of geese and chickens.

FRYE TO DESERT SENATE.

Doesn't Expect Any Outcome and Considers Session Blunder.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Anticipating the failure of the Senate to do anything that will require his presence in Washington and characterizing the extra session as a "political and business blunder," Senator William P. Frye, of Maine, who not only has the record of the Senate in point of service, but who has been in Congress longer than any man now a member of either branch, will leave for his home in Lewiston on Wednesday, and will remain there until Congress meets for the regular session next December.

Senator Frye entered the House of Representatives 41 years ago, 11 years later became a member of the Senate, and for the past 15 years has been president pro tempore. It was his resignation from this position at the opening of the extra session that precipitated the first opening fight between the Republican regulars and insurgents, a battle that probably will prevent the regulars from electing their caucus nominee, Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire.

Beginning with a brief discussion of the situation in the Senate, Senator Frye lately made some interesting observations on conditions as they are today and as they were many years ago. Then he said:

"As to the Senate, I don't see how it can accomplish anything. Its inability to choose a successor to me as president pro tempore shows that the Republican insurgents can hold the whole Senate up whenever they want to. I have a foot that is giving me great trouble. I cannot get about easily, so why should I remain in Washington during the hot weather? If a situation arises in the Senate that creates a need for my vote I shall come back. But I anticipate no such contingency.

"As a matter of fact, I think this extra session a great politicial and business blunder. So far as I can see nobody wants reciprocity with Canada. What the Senate will do about it I cannot predict, but I am sure it will not take long to prove what a great mistake this extra session is."

Stepping aside on a trestle to permit two women to pass him and his two companions, John Heylenn stepped too far and plunged to his death in Canyon creek, Idaho.

Miss Laura Robinson, a 12-year old girl, is the best speller in Oklahoma, according to the decisions of the judges in the contest for the spelling championship of the state, which ended recently, after having lasted for 12 hours and 30 minutes.

SHOULD HAVE FRUIT GARDEN

One Acre of Ground Is Sufficient to Supply the Average Farmer With Bountiful Supply.

If the farmers only knew the comparatively small cost that would enable them to supply their tables with an abundance of bush and tree fruits and the health and contentment which the use of these fruits would bring, many more would engage in their culture. One acre of ground near the dwelling, planted with some of the best varieties of small and large fruits, would be sufficient to give a moderate-sized family a bountiful supply from the 1st of June until midwinter.

A piece of ground should be selected which has a good dry soil facing the south or southwest and protected by the dwelling or a belt of trees on the north and west sides to ward off the cold north winds and rainstorms. The ground should be deeply plowed and finely pulverized. The standard apple, pear and plum trees should be planted in rows. Apple trees should be planted 30 feet apart each way, as they take six to eight years to come into full fruitery. Standard pears, plums and peaches may be planted in the same row with the apples, allowing the trees to stand 15 feet part in the row. Plant grapes in eight-foot rows and eight feet apart in the row. The small fruits, such as gooseberries, currants, raspberries and blackberries, may be planted in five-foot rows in between the larger trees and strawberries in the same rows as the apple and pear trees.

DAMAGE SUIT INSTITUTED AGAINST THE PUBLIC SERVICE CO.

Summons, preliminary to a civil suit, was yesterday served on the North Carolina Public Service Company by Clifford Frazier, attorney for J. P. Prevost, administrator for William Prevost, deceased. The bill of complaint has not yet been filed and the amount of damages sought to be recovered are not known.

It will be remembered that Prevost, who was in the employ of the defendant company, stepped in front of a rapidly moving car near Forest avenue crossing on Spring Garden street, last fall and was knocked down and his shoulder dislocated by the car. He was kept in the hospital for several days and after a few weeks was able to be on the streets. However, tuberculosis developed a few weeks later and he succumbed after a brief illness. The plaintiff will allege in the complaint that the death of Prevost was primarily due to the accident and was caused by negligence of the company, that the street car at the time of the accident was going at a high rate of speed and no warning was given of its approach in time for the deceased to clear the track.

TAFT FEARS DEEEAT OE RECIPROCITY

Washington, May 25.—President Taft is so concerned lest the reciprocity bill is facing defeat in the Senate that he is appealing to his friends, both in and out of Congress, for support. The Root amendment and the farmers' free list bill are the causes of his fear.

DAILY MARKET REPORTS

WEATHER FORECAST.

Louisiana and Arkansas—Fair.
Oklahoma—Fair; cooler in West.
East Texas—Increasing cloudiness.
West Texas—Increasing cloudiness, cooler in Panhandle.
Eastern Belt—Fair.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, La., May 25.—Liverpool lost on old crops today the loss that has been due for some days back, 4 to 6 points. Spots 8 lower, sales 6,000. Although there is no normal party, a thing which cannot be expected with the present supply situation, the markets are moving entirely in harmony, which strongly suggests a perfect understanding between the leading interests in different quarters. The world clamors for some concession over the bureau report, and some allowance is being made. The weather map shows fair over the belt except south and Southwest Texas where it is cloudy. No rains and indications are for fair weather except probably cloudy in the Western quarter of the belt. Weather is favorable for South Texas, the central states, Alabama and Georgia, but the Northern half of Texas could do with some rain and Oklahoma and the Carolinas need rain badly. This is the last day for condition reports to the government. The Carolinas and Oklahoma will hardly show the high condition of last year. Tennessee is also likely to show less. A higher condition is expected from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama.

Our market opened ten down on old crops and was entirely controlled by the price movement of July and August in New York. There were sharp fluctuations but support was never prominent and July sold as low as 15.56; August to 14.62. New crops were sympathetically affected by the decline in July but met a free demand at every point of depression and the net loss on the winter months was only a few points.

HAYWARD & CLARK.

Conditions in Georgia and Alabama.

New York, May 25.—Special reports to the Journal of Commerce report prospects good in Georgia and Alabama, although season, one to three weeks late. Ground well prepared; standsgood; dry in early part of month, late rains improved prospects very much, none abandoned, acreage increase about five per cent. In Georgia a rough average of conditions show prospects ten points better than a year ago when condition was 79.3. The increase in use of fertilizers is very general. Alabama condition will probably be 1 to 6 points better than last year when it was 81.2.

J. E. LATHAM'S COTTON LETTER.

Greensboro, May 25.—Cotton continues to soar, the mills continue to run, near curtailment is practiced and short time is threatened.

All manufacturers seem to agree upon three things:

First—That prices of cotton goods are at a disparity and many of the mills are not making a profit.

Second—The way to lengthen the supply of cotton and shorten the supply of cotton goods is by actual short time.

Third—The other fellow ought to shut down tight or curtail fifty per cent. while I run full time.

This policy of everybody waiting for the other fellow to curtail has placed cotton in a very strong statisticial position. Spinners find themselves bidding against each other and against a handful of strong speculators who have the situation so much at their command that their supremacy is conceded.

The supply of goods seems to be ample although the accumulations are not burdensome.

In Great Britain business continues good and the Continent shows improvement.

Crop accounts are very favorable and the start is much above the average except in small areas in North Carolina, South Carolina and Oklahoma, where dry weather has delayed the coming up. The acreage and the use of fertilizers will exceed all records. Man's effort to grow a big crop and an early one can be defeated only by conditions beyond human control. A big crop of cotton is desired and a big crop will be required for the world's needs. "None are so anxious as those who watch and wait," and all civilization is concerned about the cotton crop and this anxiety will not be relieved for many days at a time until we are nearer the bales.

LETTERS AWARDED ATHLETES OF THE LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Following the custom of the majority of the big colleges the Greensboro High School Athletic Association voted last spring to present letters to the members of the various atletic teams that represented that body on the gridiron, diamond and track. In carrying out this action a standing committee of awards was created, composed of the managers, captains, and coaches of the teams and the president of the association.

This committee has finally completed its task of measuring the candidates and their claims to the standards set and the following awards have been made:

The twelve members meeting the requirements for football by playing in the majority of the games and winning a "G," made in Old English style and in the purple and gold of the High School, are: Yates and Marrs, halfbacks; Grimsley and Coffin (Capt.), fullbacks; Foust, center; Murray, McDuffie, and Harry, ends; Bond and Dixon, tackles; and Lindau and Fisher, guards.

The eleven members meeting the requirements for baseball won black "Gs," as follows: Bond and Higgins, catchers; Coffin, pitcher; Foust (Capt.), first base; McDuffie, second base; Yates, shortstop; Preddy, third base; Fisher, left field; Lewis and McCullen, centerfield; Taylor, right field.

The eight members who were awarded script "Gs" for winning two points or more for each track meet in which the High School entered a team, are the following: Yates, high jump and 220 yard dash; Clement, half mile and mile runs; Coffin, broad jump and shot put; Grimsley, pole vault; Dixon, shot put; McDuffie, (Capt.) 100 yard and 440 yard dashes; Wolfe, half mile run; Bond, broad jump and low hurdles.

Four boys, Yates, Coffin, Bond and McDuffie held position on each of the three teams and were givenhonorable mention along with three letters.

SUMMONS SERVED IN $5,000 DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CITY

Attorney George M. Patton, counsel for Oliver York, has had served on the city a summons, this being the preliminary action in a suit for $5,000 for damages. The bill of complaint has not yet been filed, but will be in a few days.

York alleges that he was thrown from his buggy and received permanent injuries while driving along a portion of Fields avenue and contends that the city is responsible for the dangerous condition of the avenue, the fall being caused by a hole in the alley. The city holds that the portion of the alley in which the accident occurred was not a public street or avenue, but was a private alleyway and that the city was not responsible for its condition.

The accident occurred in November 1909 and the plaintiff was kept in his room for some time after the accident.

School were held with special success this morning when Prof. Edwin Mims, of the University of North Carolina, delivered the literary address and the diplomas were presented to six young ladies, the presentation being by Rt. Rev. Joseph Blount Cheshire, bishop of the diocese of North Carolina. The graduates are Misses Anne Jones, Raleigh; Rebecca Merritt, Raleigh; Miss Josephine Tonnoffski, Raleigh; Lula Parker, West Raleigh; Nell Battle Lewis, Raleigh, and Isabelle Perry, Henderson.

The federal court is making progress in spite of the sweltering weather conditions. However, that the court is feeling the effect of the weather conditions is indicated by an order made this morning by Judge Connor for three electric fans and five water coolers to be provided at once. There is in progress the trial of George Hopkins, a well to do Durham county farmer, on the charge of blockading and concealing whiskey. The principal evidence thus far seems to be that the revenue officers found a large quantity of jugs of different sizes in his place. He denies any connection with illicit whiskey. Jim Jones was convicted of distilling in Chatham county. He had an improvised outfit rigged up in his wellhouse and was using his wife's wash-pot in the making of "cane brandy." Josiah Frazier was given 18 months in the penitentiary for blockading in Chatham county. William Williams was convicted of removing a still in Durham county and has not been sentenced.

J. P. Glover, of Wilson, paid the costs in a peculiar case for selling whiskey without license. He wrote the collector of internal revenue here at Raleigh for license, enclosing a check for the tax. The collector returned the application for some change, retaining the check. This letter was considered by Glover and his wife to contain the license and was laid away without reading. When officers came to arrest him for selling whiskey he insisted that he had license and when he went to produce the document it was merely the note from the collector months before with the application returned for change.

George Cates, Jas. Roberts and William Whitted paid $4,000 and costs for being implicated in Durham county distilling.

G. F. C. Alumnae Elects Officers.

The annual meeting of the local Alumnae Association of Greensboro Female College was held yesterday afternoon in the library. The regular routine business was considered, after which officers for the ensuing year were elected.

Mrs. Ireland, the retiring president, told the association of the appreciation of the visiting alumnae at the receptino accorded them during the commencement. She also thanked the members for their loyal support during the past year. The association then discussed the work for the coming year, this being to increase the subscriptions for the memorials and to organize local alumnae associations and keep the needs of the college constantly before the alumnae and former students. Following the election of officers a rising vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Ireland for her devotion to the work during the past year.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. G. W. Whitsett.
First Vice President, Mrs. A. B. Kimball.
Second Vice President, Miss Annie Laurie Anderson.
Third Vice President, Miss Myrtie Ham.
Recording Secretary, Miss May Hinshaw.
Corresponding Secretary, Miss Emma Wrenn.
Treasurer, Miss Isla Stratford.
Chairman Press Committee, Miss Rosalie Smith.

Lichtenfels-Long.

The marriage of Miss Edna Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Long, to Mr. Gustaxe Lichtenfels occurred last evening in the temple on Spruce street.

The church was crowded with the relatives and friends of Miss Long and Mr. Lichtenfels, and previous to the ceremony, while the ushers were seating the guests, Mr. Spears and the orchestra played an appropriate program of music. During the ceremony "Traumerei" was played softly. The ribbon-bearers were the small daughters of Mr. and Mrs. S. Sternberg, who were clad in pretty white lingerie frocks tied with white satin ribbons and sashes. The playing of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin announced the approach of the bridal procession, which was led by six ushers. Mrs. Frederick W. Cone, Mr. Irving Long, Mr. Gustav Hohn, of Richmond, Va.; Mr. Louis Thompson, Mr. Julius Lowenbein and Mr. Leon Whitlock, followed by the maid of honor and only attendant of the bride. Miss Dorothy Long. Miss Long looked unusually pretty in a frock of white marquisette with Dresden flowering of pink, a trimming of braided net and a sash of pink. She wore a full wreath of pink roses and carried a large bunch of the same flowers. Miss Long entered with her father, and was very handsome in a gown of white satin, lavishly trimmed with duchesse lace and an embroidery of white silk. Her veil, which fell to almost the hem of the long train, was worn off the face, with a Dutch cap effect of the duchess lace, held in place by a wreath that encircled the head of lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. A beautiful shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and ferns was carried. Miss Long was met at the altar by Mr. Lichtenfels and his best man, Mr. William Lichtenfels. Dr. Leonard Rothstein, of Alexandria, Va., was the celebrant, and read the Jewish marriage service, which is unusually impressive and beautiful. After the ceremony the bridal party and Mrs. Long, who wore a grey crepe dechine, carrying white roses and mauve sweet peas; Mr. and Mrs. Sternberg, the latter in a gown of black net heavily embroidered in gold and paillettes, and Miss Etta Cone, wearing a handsome gown of black with white lace, drove immediately to the Manor, wher ethey shortly afterward received the guests invited to the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Lichtenfels late in the evening departed on their honeymoon of some weeks, after which they will reside on North French Broad avenue.—Asheville Citizen of May 25.

BIBLE TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The Bible and Literary Training School will close its eighth session today, beginning at 9:30 a. m. The exercises will consist of orations, recitations, essays, piano solos and duets.

The past year has been the best year in the history of the school. About 90 students have been enrolled in the different departments. Several of the students are preparing for the mission fields, beside many others for Christian work in the homeland.

We have a missionary in India who was a student two years ago.

The public is cordially invited to attend these exercises.

Divided Bathing Suit Appears; It Seems to Have Advantages

THERE was no doubt that it would be here, and here it is. What? Why, the harem bathing suit, or the divided skirt bathing suit, or the trouserette bathing suit, or the jupe culotte bathing suit—call it what you will, the picture above shows it—or them. The Chicago chief of police has recently issued orders concerning the bathing suits that will be permitted this year within his jurisdiction. According to his specifications, the young woman pictured above would be barred, and yet there are many who will see nothing immodest in it. As to its beauty there will also be different opinions, most of them being based on the attractions of the girl in the suit.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, May 25.—C. C. McDonald, bond broker, of Raleigh, and A. B. Leach, banker, of New York, secured the entire issue of $310,000 State bonds, 4 per cent., forty years, sold today for the erection of the $250,000 State administration building and the $60,000 State School for Feeble-minded. They made a joint bid of $310,124 for the issue. The bids were opened at noon by State Treasurer Lacy and it was found that there were bids in for $387,100 of bonds at and above par. Especially notable among the bidders who failed to secure any allotment of bonds were Col. A. B. Andrews, for $19,000; Chas. W. Horne, Clayton, $1,000; J. D. McIver, Sanford, $10,000; C. A. Raysor, Asheville, $5,200; First National Bank of Asheboro, $5,000. The bonds are to bear date of July 1, 1911.

A charter was issued today for the People's Bank of Catawba,, Catawba county. The capital is $25,000 authorized and $10,000 subscribed by Fred Y. Long, J. N. Long and others. The bank will do a general commercial and savings business.

In the Supereme Court today there was heard the argument on appeal in the case of J. C. Holly, under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of Edward Cromwell, an eighteen-year-old ward in Wilmington, he being accused also of setting fire to his hotel (Rock Spring) for the dual purpose of hiding the murder and collecting excessive insurance. The arguments for the prisoner were made by C. D. Weeks and W. J. Bellamy, of Wilmington, and the argument for the state was by Assistant Attorney General G. L. Jones. The contention of counsel for Holly on appeal is that the prosecution has failed to prove that Edward Cromwell was actually killed or that the body taken out of the burning hotel was that of Cromwell. Also they raise the issue that a fatal defect in the case for the prosecution is that the chemists examining the body certified to having found a different sort of poison from that that was shown to have been sold to Holly for killing rats, as he explained to the druggist in purchasing it.

BUSINESS BUT LITTLE IMPROVED IN STREET

Scarcity of Lambs Makes Wall Street Dull Despite Satisfactory Decision in Standard Oil Case—News From Financial District of Metropolis.

(By PRESTON C. ADAMS.)
Special to Telegram.

New York, May 25.—With the position of the United States Supreme Court known on the Trust question and its position fairly satisfactory to the big interests buisiness on Wall Street has assumed a somewhat more satisfactory aspect, though it must be confessed there is still a woeful shortage in the lamb supply, and as everybody knows, the picking is mighty dry in the street without a reasonably plentiful supply of lambs:

While the summer is not a closed season for lambs in the street, they are extremely scarce so the professionals have about settled down to the conclusion that they must get along on mighty little until vacation time is over.

Incidentally the nearby and cheaper summer resorts are likely to have a much larger Wall Street Colony this summer than they have had for many years.

In regard to those Supreme Court decisions it is no secret that the big men of finace and industry are thoroughly well pleased with the decision. The Standard Oil Company will "reorganize" as it did once before and under the reorganization will do business pretty much as it has been doing. The Standard Oil crowd really care very little whether their dividends come from one big organization or several smaller ones provided they come undiminished and unless everybody is mistaken they will.

Some idea of the condition of things in the street may be gained from the fact that a pawnbroker, for the first time in history, has opened a shop in the Wall Street district. Everything may be pawned there, except stocks and bonds, for he has no ambition to compete with the other brokers in the exchange and on the curb. This intrusion of the Lombardian system into the financial section is misused as the subject of many jests, but is more pathetic than humorous.

Did you ever stop to think how the brokers make a living when the investing public keeps away from Wall Street? The prevailing notion is that they sell stocks to each other, but where is the money in that scheme? Others suppose that they tide over pecuniary troubles by playing bridge at their clubs, whoever wins any permanent money at bridge?

Incidentally the wise Uncle of the street seems to be doing a thriving business.

"For all that I am able to do here I might as well be on my farm," remarked a member of an old established but still energetic Stock Exchange firm. "The trout fishing is pretty good, even though we have not had enough rain, and there is more interest in looking after stock on the farm than stocks in Wall Street." This typical incident is the present attitude of the well-to-do Wall Street broker. It is wearisome hanging around a hot office day after day when there is not enough business doing to keep one member of the firm employed. More and more brokers who have passed middle age are going in for country estates, where they can rest to their heart's content, forgetful of the eternal tick, tick, tick of the ticker.

James J. Hill does not mince words in discussing Canadian reciprocityy. "It is the greatest measure before the country since the Civil War," he declares with characteristic vigor. Opponents of the agreement agree that it is probably the greatest thing for Mr. Hill in the last half century, though not necessarily for the farmers on this side of the border. The country as a whole, however, is with Mr. Hill in this instance, as, by the way, it frequently has been in the past. Mr. Hill's railroad connections with the Dominion are very extensive, and he is understood to have additional projects in mind.

Canada wants railroads so badly that it is not fastidious as to who shall build them. The latest important scheme is for a third transcontinental road. The Dominion Government is prepared to support this project by guaranteeing bonds to the amount of fully $17,000,000. The mtn behind the enterprise have attained notable success in their past, and with the hearty co-operation of the authorities there is every indication that the new system will be built as proposed.

A rather novel question was asked down town the other day: "Why is it that a bear is never heard of as going to Europe or coming back?"

As a matter of fact the interviews deposited in the ears of the newspaper reporters on the steamship piers by financiers who are either setting out for a vacation abroad or just returning from one, are invariably optimistic.

No prize is offered for an answer to this conundrum but here are some reasons suggested:

The first of which is that a bear cannot afford to go to Europe for a vacation. He has to stay around. A speculator may risk being long of stocks and going away, but a short interest in the stock market is an intolerable vacation companion. True, speculators have been known to make a great deal of money on the short side of the market, and go away afterward, but in every case they have covered their short contracts first.

A bear who has taken his profits on a large line of stocks is bound to be more or less optimistic. He is willing at least to concede that things may be ready to mend; otherwise, he would not have relieved the situation of the weight of his disapproval. And such a speculator is more likely than not to re-invest a part of his profits on the long side of the market before going away. The money a bear makes he must either spend or invest.

The remark is frequently made that the stock market has ceased to decline on the receipt of unfavorable news. The indifference to adverse happenings is, indeed, a significant feature of the present situation. Timid holders of stocks have had every inducement to liquidate before now, so that there is basis for reasoning that the market to use a Wall Street phrase, has been "sold out."

There can be little doubt that the great bulk of what might be termed the floating supply has found lodgment in reasonable quarters, and that capitalists will not be easily frightened into selling except at generous profits. Men of the calibre of the Rockefellers, Morgan, Stillman, Schiff, Speyer, Frick, Baker, Ream, Moore, Baruch, Blumenthal, Phipps, Gary, Hine, Schwab, Perkins, Reid and a dozen others are not given to accumulating extensive lines of stock with the idea of selling out at small profit; they take a long range view and act accordingly. Having discounted so much during the last twelve months, the natural tendency should be to anticipate a revival sooner or later.

Remarkable Detective Story Free.

Next in the series of Sherlock Holmes Detective stories to be given free, in booklet form, with copies of the New York Sunday World, is entitled, "The Strange Adventure of the Six Napoleons."

Nearly everybody at home and abroad knows of Sherlock Holmes, the most famous detective character ever created by an author. His masterly handling of frail evidence and bringing wrongdoers to book in spite of the most baffling circumstances places the stories of his exciting adventures foremost in the ranks of fascinating fiction.

Make sure of getting this extraordinary story by ordering next Sunday's New York World in advance.

Too Conservative.

The traveler had become hopelessly mired in one of the country highways.

"Why don't you people here use a split log drag on this blamed road," he bellowed at the farmer sitting on a rail fence.

"You town folks have been preachin' that we ort to conserve our timber resources, and we're doin' it, mister," placidly answered the farmer.

Another Nature Fake.

Dottie and Daisy sat on the steps discussing the circus parade they had just enjoyed so highly.

"Oh, Daisy," said Dottie, "did you see the hippopotamus?"

"I should think so," answered Daisy, with a shudder. "I can feel them crawling all over me yet!"

FASHIONS OF THE MOMENT.

NEW YORK.—The cri dernier of the society girl is for toque, scarf and parasol en suite. A leader of the smart set lately returning from the Riviera possessed 15 such sets, and half of them were made to accompany frocks in which from three to seven different colors were harmoniously combined. Just fancy a typical American indulging herself to such an extent, and fancy again the multitude who follow her example. There are scores of fashionable modistes who anxiously await every spring the return of this particular matron, for she culls the smartest effects offered by Paris creators of fashions, and after herself having tried their effect at such critical places as the resorts in southern France, there is no question as to the genuine character of her various choices. And now the combination toque, scarf and parasol is classed among the ultra fashionable things of the moment.

One of the prettiest sets we have seen is a faithful copy of madam's. The color scheme is lobster pink, which has taken the place of coral, and the trimmings are silver embroidery and Bruges lace. The trig little toque is quite the smartest shape we have seen. It fits the head snugly, but has a decided turn to the left side of the brim, which gives it the effect of being much larger. The crown is made of the lace over pink or lobster colored chiffon, and the visible part of the brim is faced with wonderfully done embroidery made more ornate by the addition of white or white and colored jewels. From the right side of the ridged crown (the shape is typically that of Mercury's helmet) rests a large bunch of splendid aigrettes in white tipped with the odd pink hue. The scarf and parasol carry out the color in chiffon, lace and semi-precious jewels.

Greatly Varied Question.

The question of hats is a varied one. This season there are hats for everybody, and prices to suit the purchaser. There is no end to oddities in the new models, and almost everything is shown from jockey, witch and clown shapes to the traditional helmet, cavalier, empire and Victorian styles. All these and many others are fashioned of coarse straws, tagal and hemp braids. The coarse straws are so exceedingly coarse that little trimming is required to make the finished hat becoming. Many such models are trimmed with a severe little bow or chou made of satin or velvet and placed in some unusual position. These and other styles are ideal for wear with tailor-made costumes, while the Victorian styles seem to be the only thing for the quaint little summer frocks of prints and border effects.

Among the novelties is shown a piquant model labeled "Watteau." The shape turns up defiantly at the back, and is heralded as one of the most popular shapes at the French Riviera, where smart summer fashions annually receive their christening. A number of the becoming dress hats have brims of shirred tulle with spring flowers trimming them the entire surface. The facing very often is of a different color and is of chiffon or mousseline; sometimes over a contrasting color. A stunning hat shaped on the order of the mushroom model was made in direct contrast to conventionalties. Instead of the flowers being on the top, they were employed as the facing to the underbrim, while the top of the chapeau was left comparatively plain, with nothing but a bit of shirred chiffon over the crown and brim. The flowers under the brim were simple field daisies, and the effect was novel and wonderfully becoming.

"Poke" Effect Is Good.

The close fitting hat a la mode, as shown in its best form, has acquired a decided poke that is equal to quite ravishing effects if worn over a pretty face. The smartest of these models are perfectly flat over the front of the head and the back has a variety of ways of extending the hair and ears. A fetching poke-toque of this order seen the other day was made of striped black and white satin braid with a broad front expanse of plain black hemp. The only trimming consisted of a huge bow of black and white striped velvet ribbon edged with bright green. At the sides were two rather large cobochons of jet, and across the top of the crown is another jet ornament running from front to back.

Novelties of all kinds are cropping out this season. Strings that actually tie on the hat are found among the quaintest arrivals of returned fashions. There are endless varieties of Napoleon shapes and all sorts of picturesque broad brims. An extremely becoming Napoleon is in black and white coarse straw with the crown and brim in one, turned sharply from the front and faced with royal blue satin, while the rest of the trimming consisted of blue silk cords with silver acorns finishing the ends. And back of the broad turnover brim were two enormous sized quills, made of single ostrich feathers curled close to the stem. These were in the same shade or blue and were placed in a striking upright position.

Unsual Shapes Shown.

Many of the huge straw hats look as though they had been caught in snowstorms and had come out pretty well battered, for they are bent in the most unusual shapes and frequently the straw actually seems broken. Brims are wide and most irregular, while crowns are dented to give the desired effect. To most persons such a shape is more becoming than the hard conventional lines of the perfectly straight brim, and if properly trimmed the result is exceedingly smart. A quaint little model of sea grass is in pagoda shape and trimmed with a Japanese band in which several colors are woven. The simulated crown is gracefully draped with the scarf and the ends are allowed to fall over the left side.

Many styles suggestive of the French revolutionary period are in evidence, both in shapes and colors, this season. One of the most picturesque models we have seen had a very wide flare at the left side and high thimble-shaped crown. It was made of coarse straw in the new illuminated gray called "mother of pearl." The trimming consisted of a band of rich embroidery drawn across the front of the crown and under the brim on both sides. At the back were three very long plumes in dull pinks and greens. These were of the new class that so far is nameless, but they are really nothing more nor less than handsome ostrich feathers wired very stiffly with the under fibers curled toward the stem in the fashion of a lyre plume and a certain little quirk in the wire which flattens the feather in the center and gives it a jaunty turn at the end.

All Sorts of Trimming.

The trimmings are exquisite. Wild flowers and old fashioned garden flowers vie with each other on the same hat. Natural colorings of artificial flowers are given little attention. Almost any shade that blends with the tone of the hat or gown is considered smart. A new idea that is taking well is the use of beads applied directly to the straw, and if the fad continues there is no telling to what spectacular lengths it may run. Boad trimmings of all kinds are also seen on some of the best hats. The mingling of big and little blossoms is another fad of the moment. Rambler and moss roses together with the tiniest of button roses formed the trimming of one of the handsomest picture hats shown this season. Another model of the same dimensions had for its trimming a wonderful combination of poinsettias and camelias with weeping willow foliage in its natural shade of soft green. Lace is also much used in millinery, though more in the makeup than in its garnishments.

Home Dress.

Nattier blue mercerised poplinette makes a smart and quite inexpensive dress in this style. The skirt has a wide band of material at foot, put on with a wrapped seam; silk-covered buttons trim left side front breadth. The bodice is trimmed up left side with galloon and buttons, galloon also outlines the round yoke of lace. Small bishop sleeves gathered into deep cuffs that are trimmed to match bodice.

Materials required: 5½ yards 46 inches wide, 10 buttons, 5 yards sateen for lining, ½ yard lace 18 inches wide, 2½ yards galloon.

RAILROAD PRESIDENT BEGAN AS A RODMAN

Although recently forced out of the position himself, George J. Gould, opposing the Rockefeller-Kuhn - Loeb interests, brought about the election of B. F. Bush as his successor as president of the Missouri Pacific railway, defeating David R. Francis, former governor of Missouri. Mr. Bush is president of the Western Maryland railway.

The victory of the Gould faction was followed by the announcement of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.'s withdrawal as bankers for the system, with the resignation of Paul M. Warburg, the company's representative on the board of directors, and of Cornelius Vanderbilt, an ally.

After the meeting both George Gould and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. issued statements explaining their side of the case, Mr. Gould regretting the withdrawal of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., but congratulating the road on the selection of Mr. Bush. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., on the other hand, explained that they did not favor Mr. Bush and that because of his election, Messrs. Warburg and Vanderbilt felt "unwilling to share responsibility in the management of the company under these circumstances."

Benjamin Franklin Brush is fifty-one years old and is a native of Wellsburg, Pa. He began his railroad career in 1882 as a rodman for the Northern Pacific and rose to be division engineer. Then he was made chief engineer and general superintendent of the Oregon Improvement company, then general manager of the Northwestern Improvement company, and in 1903 vice-president and general manager of the Western Coal and Mining company.

When he came to Baltimore in 1907 he was fuel agent of the Missouri Pacific railway. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

Mr. Bush has been president of the Western Maryland railroad since March 16, 1907. At the same time he became president of the Davis Coal and Coke company and later he became president of the Pittsburg Terminal Railroad and Coal company, which has since been leased by the Pittsburg Coal company.

ETHEL CROKER SUES HORSE GROOM HUSBAND

Mrs. Ethel Croker-Breen, the youngest daughter of the former Tammany chieftain, Richard Croker, has started a suit in Hudson county, New Jersey for the annulment of her marriage from John J. Breen, the horse groom, whom she married April 28, 1910, after having spurned an English nobleman and an Italian prince.

It is said that a number of conferences took place in New York before the action was started, and Breen came from Canada, where he is employed, and engaged counsel to defend the suit. Search for Mrs. Breen revealed the fact that she is now living in Paris with her sister, the Duchess San Martino, who was Miss Florence Croker. She sailed several weeks ago.

According to a newspaper informant, Breen, who has been in charge of a string of horses for J. R. Stratton, M. P., at Petersburg, Ont., has visited New York twice within three weeks, the final visit taking place the day prior to that on which Richard Croker sailed for his home in Ireland.

Confirmation of the report that the action had been taken came from O'Neil Seelig, a friend of young Breen, who is employed in the Knickerbocker stables in this city.

Seelig said that Breen was now in Petersburg, Ont., and would not return to New York until early fall, when the action would probably be begun in the courts. Breen expressed great surprise to him, he said, because last fall he was given assurances that his wife would join him in Canada during the winter. Breen said he was also assured by the Crokers that the trip his bride made to Paris with her mother shortly after the news of the wedding became public was necessary that she might obtain a suitable outfit. According to Seelig, the action was taken because Breen was a Protestant and Miss Croker a Catholic.

Pearls Change Color.

Some pink pearls seem to change color something like watered silk. Such pearls when perfectly round and of fine color bring the rocks. Out on the Gulf of California are plenty of pink or conch pearls, but they seldom come in good shapes and are really red to pale yellow, rather than pink, though some are sometimes as white as china.

Revenge.

Martha, aged five, precocious and observant, had been severely spanked by her mother. She sat on the floor, her eyes filled with angry tears. Suddenly she rose with a determined look upon her little face and seized her hat. "Where are you going?" asked her mother. "Out to tell all the family secrets to the neighbors," said the child firmly.—Life.

HELPFUL DAIRY NOTES.

On the dairy farm a short system of crop rotation removes old fields, puts all crops nearer to the manure and fertilizer used, increases the variety of the feeds, adds to their value through an increase in their protein content and to their palatability and ease of digestion.

Food and food productions for the dairy lie at the foundation of successful dairying. Unless the foundation is well laid the business will be a failure.

Dairying today is the leading branch of farming, bringing to the farmer the most money and leaving the land in the best possible condition to continue its production.

Cows for market are as much a product of our dairy business as milk and butter, and many farmers are finding good profits in growing and selling good dairy cows to their brother dairymen who are not in a position to raise their own cows.

Poultry in the Orchard.

A well-drained orchard promotes the life of your trees; a well-drained poultry yard affords a long life to your flock. Why not plant both on the same plot of ground?

The droppings from the poultry as they roam over the orchard are valuable. In order to keep up the fertility of the soil in the orchard, one must use a good fertilizer, and there is nothing more valuable in this line than poultry manure.

We scatter all the cleanings from the colony and hen houses all over our orchard.

Keep Clean.

Keep your house and your belongings clean. Let the blessed sun, the greatest physician in the world, get all through you and all about you. Get your full share of the free air of heaven. "Eat to live and not live to eat," as a sage philosopher of the long ago tells us. Keep your house clean in which you live and keep the "house" in which your life lives clean, and all will be well.

OLD "WATTS FARM" FOR SALE

Famous Tract of New York Land to Be Offered at Public Auction—Rather Unusual Occurrence.

New York.—Representatives of the Mary G. Pinkney estate have announced that they will offer the extensive realty holdings, known as the old "Watts Farm," at public auction in the Vessey street salesrooms, through Joseph F. Day, auctioneer. Counsel Abram I. Elkus in an interview with reference to this executive estate sale of one of the largest and most noted estates in the history of New York said:

"Of course, it is not a usual occurrence, even in New York, to have estates such as this put on the market through the public auction room, and it was after a great deal of thought, effort and deliberation that it was finally decided that this estate be offered at public sale. It is the largest estate ever offered at one time."

CANARY BIRD THAT CAN TALK

Philadelphia Woman Refuses $1,000 for Little Songster That Can Speak Five Words.

Philadelphia.—Mrs. Peter Carney of 178 North Broad street, this city, is the possessor of probably the greatest ornithological wonder in existence. She owns a talking canary, which has a vocabulary of five words. She was offered $1,000 for the yellow warbler the other day by an emissary of the Zoological gardens of New York city after he had determined the songstress could say "Pretty little Peter," "Pretty little baby," or "Pretty little birdie," and that he was a true canary, but Mrs. Carney refused it. The zoologist says the bird is the only one of its species known to have enunciated English.

CONGRESS TALKS OF LONG RECESS

Lawmakers Anxious to Get Away From Washington.

HELD BY RECIPROCITY BILL.

Long Debate on That Measure Is Certain, but Indications Are That It Has a Clear Majority and Will Pass. Newlands and Heyburn Give Their Ideas About Progressives.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 25. — (Special.) — Congress wants to get away from Washington. There have been whisperings about a scheme to adjourn for a few weeks or a few months, and it has even been suggested that the best thing possible would be for congress to adjourn until next December.

Of course the president will be ready to have congress depart as soon as the reciprocity bill is passed, but it is the reciprocity bill that bids fair to keep congress in session. There would be no difficulty about adjourning if it were not for the fear of criticism that such a procedure would invoke. The president will not consent to an adjournment until there has been a vote on the reciprocity bill.

The house cannot allow the senate to adjourn until the senate has passed the bill. In fact, there are so many complications that stand in the way of a long recess or an adjournment that nothing will be done at present.

May Be Taken Up Later.

But the discussion at this time indicates that the subject may come up later, after the debate has run for a long time on the reciprocity bill. That it will be a long debate there can be no doubt. The hearings have been much more extended than were first anticipated. There have been arguments presented which senators opposed to the reciprocity bill intend to read into the Congressional Record.

There is also a feeling among many senators opposed to the bill that the hearings have already had the effect of injuring its prospects and that a lengthy debate in the senate may defeat the measure. That, however, is a doubtful hope on the part of the opponents of reciprocity. At present it looks as if there was a clear majority for the bill and that it can only be defeated by being talked to death.

What Is a Progressive?

Talking in the senate Senator Newlands several times referred to the progressives. Senator Heyburn wanted to know what he meant by the term, and after considerable insistence and talk back and forth Newlands said his idea was that a progressive was a man who stands for the correction of existing abuses, and he added that there were varying degrees, some were "near progressives, others regular, others stalwart, others reactionary."

Heyburn was of the opinion that the progressives, reformers or by whatever term they were called were men who "would turn their backs upon the principles that they had professed and march the other way." The Idaho senator has no use whatever for those Republicans who do not follow the majority of the party or support the principles which he believes belongs to the Republican party.

Williams' Conclusion.

Senator John Sharp Williams is of the opinion that the American people can compete with the world, or at least he has so stated. During the hearing on the free list bill he interrupted one man who was expressing his fear of this country becoming the dumping ground of all foreign countries to remark in his most sarcastic tones: "It looks to me as if there was nothing that we could produce in competition with the rest of the world. The manufacturers say they cannot live in competition, the miners say they cannot, and the farmers say they cannot, and if that is so we have got a right poor country."

A Boom Silenced.

Several weeks ago some one started a presidential boom for Chief Justice White. A few papers took it up, and the chief justice received considerable favorable comment. But we shall hear no more of it. Since the decision in which "reasonableness" of combination in restraint of trade has been written into the anti-trust law in the opinion by the chief justice there will be no further discussion of his availability for president. It is not to be expected that this will worry him in the least. He never took the mention of his name seriously.

"New Coops."

Congressman Latta of Nebraska, coming from a farming country, naturally uses farm terms. One day he was talking about various commissions, bureaus, etc., that had been created in late years. He called them "new coops." When asked to explain he said that they had been made for "lame ducks," and that seemed to be a fitting name for them.

Congressman Stephens of Texas, who heard the conversation, said that when the house took up the appropriation bills it would destroy a number of the "new coops" by cutting off the appropriations to maintain them. But most of the commissions and bureaus have planted themselves firmly upon the government, and it will take a mighty effort to pry them loose.

HOG FEEDING IS IMPORTANT

Experiments With Swine Show That Mineral Elements Are Absolute Necessity, Except for Fat.

It is quite common to furnish hogs wood ashes, charcoal, salt and other things of a like nature, as it is thought such things keep the animals in good health. The experiment stations are making a study of this matter, and some interesting facts about the need of mineral elements in animal diet are given in bulletins 201 and 207 of the Ohio experiment station.

It was shown by one of the experiments cited that it was possible to kill animals quicker by removing the mineral matter from their food than to deprive them of all food. In experiments with hogs, the use of chalk, bone flour, calcium phosphates and other calcium salts gave good results. Wheat bran, clover and grasses supply much mineral matter in addition to the much-needed protein, so these foods are relatively more important than corn, except during the final finishing period, when mostly fat is wanted.

Hogs are bringing long prices these days, and they certainly deserve good care and the best we have in the way of feed.

Glass Walls In Fruit Culture.

Fruit culturists abroad have recently essayed the use of fruit walls of glass instead of masonry, with interesting results. With a glass wall the same kinds of fruit can be grown on both the north and south sides. The results in the case of pear trees are said to be most excellent, the fruit grown on the north side of the wall being equal to that grown on the south side, and even smoother. Good results have also been obtained in the case of peaches and apples. The principal objection made to the glass wall, says the Scientific American, is that it does not store up heat like a masonry wall, to keep the plants warm at night; during the daytime the heat is nearly equal on both sides of the wall.

FOR A RIPE OLD AGE

Advice Given by Former President of Harvard.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot Has Pronounced Views for the Promotion of Longevity—"Go to Church, and Think," Are Two.

When a man like Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard, expresses his views on living to a good old age, one may expect ideas of unusual weight. The distinguished educator is not disappointing in this respect as a glance at the following list of rules will show:

Go to church.

Keep a clean heart and a good conscience.

Give your mind exercise as well as your body. Really think.

Exercise regularly. Eat in moderation. Take a full allowance of sleep.

Avoid indulgence in luxuries and the habitual use of any drug whatsoever—not only of alcohol, but of tobacco, tea and coffee.

In elaborating his ideas on how to promote longevity Doctor Eliot said:

"I am not one of those who believe that it is necessary to abstain wholly from the use of alcohol, tobacco, tea, coffee or other stimulants. On the contrary, I feel that there are times when a stimulant used in moderation is beneficial. What I am opposed to is the habitual use of stimulants, even in moderation.

"As to exercise, precisely the opposite course should be followed. Stimulants, if used at all, should be used only on exceptional occasions. Exercise should be taken regularly, though always in moderation.

"Pre-eminent among such forms of exercise I place walking, driving, horseback riding, rowing, sailing, bicycling and playing golf. All of these can be made competitive, but they are in their nature individualistic.

"Exercising the mind I consider fully as important as exercising the body. No man can hope to retain his mental any more than his physical faculties in full vigor unless he exercises them. Too many people let others do their thinking for them or else think in a narrow rut, which gets narrower as they grow older. The result is mental atrophy similar to the atrophy that develops in unused muscles. I also feel strongly with regard to the matter of sleep. My own allowance is eight hours and I am inclined to think that a man cannot get along on much less and do his best work. Some people require ten hours.

"I might add that a most powerful aid to right living is systematic church-going. My advice to every man is to join some church and attend its services regularly. He should do this even though he may feel that the religious motive is not very strong in him. The influence of the church service is invariably to turn his mind to lofty things and to keep him acquainted with the noblest ideals of life."

Deep Deception.

Miss Bessie Bluebell, the charming shop girl, had come for a holiday to Blusterford-on-the-Breeze, and put up at a small farm.

"And I want new-laid eggs in the morning for breakfast, please," she said. "I'm very fond of new-laid eggs."

"Yes, miss. My fowls lay in all weathers, and you shall have the eggs right out of the nest!"

Ten minutes later Miss Bessie overheard the following:

"And now, Tommy, the lady wants new-laid eggs for breakfast in the mornin', and we ain't got none; so you just run and get half a dozen shop eggs from the grocer first thing in the mornin', while I go out and cackle in the yard!"

What Is Tact?

Tact is one of the most useful qualities that man, woman or child can possess. It is made up of many qualities, such as:

A sympathetic knowledge of human nature. Common sense. Knowledge of when to speak and when to hold one's tongue. The ability to say and do the right thing—at the right moment. Recognition of the fact that yours is but one of many opinions. In short—

Tact is a kindly, sincere spirit, coupled with an ability to put yourself into "the other fellow's place."

Be tactful. It is a noble art.

A Kansas Proclamation.

An Anthony man has issued the following proclamation: "Neighbors, I am a man of peace. I want no trouble. I want to make no trouble for others. I have a wife and children and they need me. I also have a house, a lawn and a garden. I am about to put some seed in my garden beds. I have bought a gun and some shells, and while I am not a crack shot, I think I can hit chickens. It is my purpose to try if any come around where my blue grass is struggling and my onions are showing their bald heads."—Anthony Bulletin.

Little Bennie Sheridan waved his hand frantically, and going to the board scrawled the correction: "The toast was eaten in silence."—Metropolitan Magazine.

POLITICIANS WATCHING GOVERNOR WILSON

New Jersey Man is in The Spotlight--Why Dickinson Resigned And McVeagh May Follow --Adjournment of Congress is Beginning to be Talked of.

(By RALPH M. WHITESIDE.)
Special to Telegram.

Washington, May 25.—No "swing around the circle" for many years has attracted the interest, though rather quiet interest, among politicians and statesmen of all parties and every degree, as has that of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey.

Every speech is studied, the reports of all the meetings are scanned carefully and nothing the Jersey man says or does passes without being considered from all angles.

A year ago Governor Wilson was not known of politicians, some of the high brows knew of him as President of Princeton University, but the most far-sighted, practical politician in the bunch would have laughed to have heard the name of Woodrow Wilson mentioned in connection with the Presidency of the United States.

When he was elected Governor of New Jersey even, it did not cause much of a ripple. It was a Democratic year anyway and several Democratic Governors were elected.

When, however, he defied the powerful Smith machine and beat it to a pulp, politicians began to take notice and then when he took hold of a not over friendly legislature and put through the program he had promised when a candidate, it became certainty that he was a force which must be recognized in all providential calculations.

Its a long time before the nominating conventions are held but the impression is strong here in Washington that the man who beats Wilson will be the Democratic nominee. Things may change, of course, but thats the way it looks now.

The statement that Secretary of War Dickinson resigned freely because of the demand of private business is accepted with reserve as the diplomats say, in well informed circles.

There is no doubt that Mr. Dickinson made considerable financial sacrifice to go into the cabinet, and that he will be much better off in private life so far as income goes than as head of the war department. There is, however, good wisdom in the belief that there were other causes which had much to do with his retirement. In the first place there have, I understand, been grave differences of opinion between the President and the retired war secretary as to the Mexican situation. Then, too, Mr. Dickinson is one of two Democrats in the cabinet, the other is secretary McVeagh, and strong party men begun to grow restive over the disposition of the President to overlook party lines in making high appointments. Mr. Taft is seeking re-nomonation and these objections on the part of Republicans who believe there are Republicans good enough for any office,have become rather embarrassing. It is not impossible that Mr. McVeagh will find his business demands his private attention before long.

Congressmen are beginning to talk about adjournment. Republicans in both branches have been hinting that a recess during the hot months would not interfere with legislation at all, while many Democrats in the House are beginning to believe they will be through with all they care to enact of their legislative program within another month.

High temperature served to stimulate in the minds of the representatives more interest in summer resort matters than in tariff questions. For several days they have been considering the possibility of getting through for the summer by the first of July.

Though the Democratic free list bill will probably not be passed by the Senate—it may not be considered at all—the Democratic leaders insist that they have demonstrated to the people that in passing that measure their intentions were good, and that it will not be necessary for them to insist upon remaining in session to await action on it by the Senate.

The reciprocity bill they expect the Senate to pass within a month, and then all that President Taft asked of the extraordinary session will have been disposed of.

While the Hon. Hoke Smith, governor of Georgia elect, with characteristic modesty, declined to tell the subject of his conference with President Taft recently, others have been more willing to explain the governor's confessedly mysterious mission. Governor Smith did not care to admit that, although a Democrat he had a personal interest in a veteran appointment soon to be made by a Republican President. Although the modesty of the Governor Hoke prevented him from explaining his deep personal interest in the selection of a Republican for Federal office. So it came to pass that Governor Curry and others of New Mexico here on Statehood made one good guess, and the right one, on the Hoke Smith call at the White House. They knew that Judge Pope, now a territorial judge in the Territory, has been for years a protege of the Governor, and the one right guess of Governor Curry and others was that Judge Pope was indorsed by Governor Smith for the Federal judgeship to be created when New Mexico is a State. The governor of Georgia explained to President Taft a personal interest in the appointment of Judge Pope.

It was explained that years ago Governor Smith and a few other citizens of Georgia heard a lad deliver a remarkable high school graduation speech. They were so attracted by the promise of the young lad of 17 years that they looked him up next day and offered to put him through college. He was poor, but proud, and would not accept the offer unless his admirers would permit him to pay back the money advanced for his education. They did not care for a return, but had to accept his stipulations. Only a few years after the lad, a graduate of college and the law, came to Governor Smith with the full amount that had been advanced him and with compound interest. He simply insisted on payment of the debt, and went on making a name for himself in the law. His health broke under the strain, and he went to New Mexico where later he was made territorial judge. Now comes his probable appointment to the Federal bench for life, and the President has the greater regard for the young man since hearing the Hoke Smith story, and after learning from New Mexico people the story of his record as Judge Pope since he became a factor in the affairs of the Territory.

It is not true that Uncle Joe Cannon has agreed to lead the campaign inaugurated by the Holy Name Society to put a stop to the use of profane language in the District of Columbia. While Mr. Cannon is in thorough sympathy with the campaign his congressional duties will not permit him to take the lead.

Out in Iowa, when Albert J. Cummins first ran for governor,they used to charge him with being a "blooming aristocrat who never drank anything but champagne, and hated awfully to speak to an ordinary man." Cummins proved that it wasn't so, and won.

But the ancient charge is likely to be revived. It has been discovered that the curtains at each window of Senator Cummins' office suite cost $300.

Great, heavy velvet draperies, tied with massive silken cords, lined with the daintiest raw silk, and these splendid but severely simple hangings are testimonial to the fine taste and money recklessness of somebody.

No other office in the Senate building has anything approaching in elegance these splendid hangings. They may or may not get their owner into political trouble. But he really is not responsible for them.

The hangings were inherited with the office suite. The office used to belong to Senator Hale of Maine. He was chairman of appropriations and entitled to whatever he liked. He had it, too.

When Senator Hale moved out as Senator, his suite went to Cummins. While it was a pretty gorgeous place for an ordinary Senator, it wasn't much but a storage room for the elegant Mr. Hale. He did not use it regularly, having an office at the Capitol building.

PATRIOTS DROPPED SECOND GAME TO THE MUSICIANS

Spartanburg, May 25.—The second and last game of the series here with Greensboro went to the locals by a score of 6 to 4. The playing was intensely exciting and was witnessed by a large crowd. Ferrell was a little wild but was in good form in the pinches. The visitors first three runs came in the first from a triple, a two-bagger and two singles. The locals made fat batting averages but Walters managed to keep the hits reasonably scattered.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Spartanburg .. .. 012 002 01x—6 14 2
Greensboro .. .. 300 000 010—4 12 1

Batteries—Ferrell and Westlake; Walters and Stewart. Umpire, Nugent.

HORNETS' WILD MAN GAVE TWINS EIGHT RUNS AND VICTORY

Winston-Salem, May 25.—Bauswine's wildness together with Boyle's effectiveness won the second game with Charlotte for the Twins by the score of 8 to 2. In the first inning the wild man passed five, got rid off a wild pitch, and allowed three hits which netted the Twins five runs. Mullin walked twice in the same inning.

Charlotte's playing was faster than yesterday's, and that of the Twins was phenomenal, the Twin infield making five fast double plays. The work of Brandow, Clancy Gates and O'Halloran featured.

Boyle should not have been scored on, but was himself wild, and in the third walked three men, two of whom scored on Cross' drive to left.

Score byinnings: R. H. E.
Charlotte .. .. .. 002 000 000—2 5 4
Winston-Salem .. 510 020 00x—8 7 1

Batteries: For Charlotte—Bauswine and Hargrave; for Winston-Salem, Boyle and Cahill.

ELECTRICIANS TAKE TIRESOME GAME IN EXCITING FINISH

Anderson, S. C., May 25.—A long tiresome game spiced in the finish by a change of luck for the visitors resulted in favor of the locals 13 to 12. Four of the Spinners' runs were brought in by home runs, one with no one on and Centerfielder Doak got one over the fence with two men on. Wolfe, a new pitcher for the Electricians, got a ball over the fence with two sacks occupied. Twenty-five scores were made in this one game. By innings:

R. H. E.
Anderson .. ....001 407 001—13 14 5
Greenville .. .. ..300 001 404—12 12 7

Batteries—Coombs, Wolfe, Scanlon and Klock; Redfern, Blackstone, Kite and Ochs. Umpire, Canny.

Walters Back In Game.

Mr. J. H. Wearn, president of the Carolina Association, yesterday advised President Brandt of the local club that he might let Walters and Ware continue to play and if the opposing teams objected they could file formal protest as to the games in which they played. On Thursday of last week Walters and Ware were suspended on account of Walters' having a bad shoulder and a sore hand. It was necessary to keep a fourth pitcher, Wallace, for a few days in order to have three men who could pitch. When Walters was in good shape again objection was raised to his playing until 12 days from his suspension had expired. President Wearn was communicated with and it was found that a resolution not allowing suspended players to get in the game for 12 days had been passed. Mr. Brandt explained the causes for the suspension to Mr. Wearn, who saw how unjust it would be to keep Walters out of the game after Wallace had been released, and he advised Mr. Brandt to use Walters.

Jack Byrd In Court.

In Municipal court yesterday a negro, Jack Byrd, was fined $10 and costs for an assault with a deadly weapon. After committing the crime the negro departed for parts unknown before the warrant could be served upon him. Several weeks of freedom elapsed but the runaway turned up in Greensboro Wednesday and was promptly arrested.

DIAMOND DUST

Pushed off the front pew, begorra.

The two lowest teams are emerging from the cellar.

Spartanburg yields her lien on the cellar to Charlotte.

The Hornets will soon push Anderson off the roost—the lower roost, we mean.

Wish President Wearn had decided that Walters couldn't pitch.

Guess Spartanburg has no kick coming on President Wearn's decision.

The Twins go to the top this morning, while the Patriots slide back a notch.

The Chronicle says the favorite tune of Cross's men is "sliding, sliding, keep on sliding."

All the home teams won yesterday, and, unfortunately, the Patriots were away from home.

We "kinder" wish that President Brandt had let Wearn alone yesterday.

And now they are calling him Rabbit's-foot Doyle.

The mighty Bausewine is back; if you don't believe it, look at the score of the Hornets and Twins yesterday.

We think the Chronicle will soon have to change the heading to its dope from "Triturated Baseball" to "Vitriolic baseball."

We will try Kelly's Electricians today and tomorrow. Hope "Deacon" Morrisey will be able to short-circuit that bunch.

Where They Play Today.

LITTLE BOY FALLS FROM PORCH; ARM FRACTURED.

Master Billy Massey, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Massey, met with a rather painful accident yesterday. While playing on the porch he fell a distance of about twelve feet to the ground. The injuries sustained were very painful and he was removed to St. Leo's hospital. An examination there showed that one of his arms had received a double fracture from the fall. After having the wounds dressed the little fellow was removed to his home on Summit avenue.

CAMP MEETING ON TEAGUE FIELD

The Carolina State Camp Meeting will begin today at 7:45 p. m. under a large tent located on what is known as the "Teague field."

Rev. L. B. Compton, of Asheville, and Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Monroe, returned missionaries from China, are the engaged workers. There will be a number of other ministers and Christian workers who will be present to help in the meeting.

Everybody is invited to attend this camp meeting like they had "forty years ago."

W. R. COX,
President.

Visitor—And you always did your daring robberies single-handed? Why didn't you have a pal?

Prisoner—Well, sir, I wuz afraid he might turn out to be dishonest.—Toledo Blade.

Mother of Mrs. A. L. Bain Dead.

Mrs. W. W. Redding, mother of Mrs. A. L. Bain, of this city, died at her home in Randleman Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. She was 80 years of age and is survived by two sons and three daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Bain attended the funeral which was held yesterday afternoon from the late residence in Randleman.

"She insists that when she marries it will be for love."

"My goodness, is she as old-fashioned as all that?"—Detroit Free Press.

There is a most wonderful difference between the genuine Porcelain lined Refrigerator and the white enameled kind—

And it will pay you to investigate this difference

The Porcelain will last always and be the same, the white enamel will soon get soft and fall off. It will pay you to investigate before you invest. We have the Leonard Cleanable Porcelain kind, the ones that give satisfaction. Let us show them to you.
